

Abstract

The present invention relates to the formed particles comprising amoxicillin and clavulanic acid, the particles being obtained wet granulation. The invention also relates to the procedure for the preparation of these particles and to the pharmaceutical compositions comprising them.